Ulman tree to provide wood for Navy warship

BY T.H. "DOC" TOUPS
Bay St. Louis resident David Reynolds is an amateur wood worker and maritime enthusiast. Several weeks ago, he and his wife, Kate, were discussing the disposition of the dead live oak tree at the front of the Ulman Street pier, trying to think of a constructive use for the well-known area landmark.

The Reynolds contacted the city administration, through city clerk Kay Johnson, and a plan was devised to try and find a worthy charity which could use the relatively scarce live oak wood. Mr. Reynolds persuaded Wooden Boat magazine to donate ad space to inform the public of the tree's availability and the U.S. Navy responded. It seems that the Navy would like to use the wood in the hull of America's oldest commissioned warship, the USS Constitution. The Constitution is a 44-gun frigate, which became famous for its battles in the War of 1812. During one encounter, a seaman saw an enemy cannonball bounce off the live oak hull of the

Our Lady Academy students remain in stable condition

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Two Our Lady Academy (OLA) students injured in a Thursday morning vehicle accident were reported to be in stable condition Saturday at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

According to Mississippi State Highway Patrol public affairs officer Danny Tackett, Heather A. Wittmann, 17, of Pass Christian, and Anna Hall, 15, of Bay St. Louis, sustained severe injuries when the 1981 Isuzu Wittmann was driving struck the Highway 90 Pass Christian railroad overpass bridge at approximately 8:17 a.m. during hazardous driving conditions.

Tackett stated, "We really don't know what happened. It appears Wittmann, heading west, lost control of the car, crossed over the eastbound lane and struck the bridge."

Both girls were brought to Hancock Medical Center by MobileMed, where they were treated and transferred to Memorial in Gulfport.

A Memorial Hospital spokesperson said both young women remain in the intensive care unit and both are responding.

The accident is under investigation by trooper Houston Dorr.

Both girls are juniors at Our Lady Academy, according to Principal Sister Donella Hartman. Both are varsity cheerleaders for St. Stanislaus High School.

A school prayer service was held Thursday at Our Lady Academy for the two students.

A blood drive will be held today at St. Paul Catholic Church in Pass Christian from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Donors must be 17 years of age and weigh at least 110 pounds.

Kasper and Lagasse run for commission District 3

BY TRACI BONNEY

The county election commission's District 3 race will be decided Tuesday when James J. Kasper and James A. Lagasse III face each other in a runoff election.

In the November 3 general election, the three candidates split the vote into almost equal thirds. Kasper received 1,131 votes (34 percent); John Y. Ladner, 1,071 (32.2 percent); and Lagasse, 1,123 votes (33.8 percent).

Voters will cast their ballots in Crane Creek, Standard, Dedeaux, North Bay West and Diamondhead East precincts. The precinct locations are as follows:

Crane Creek — Community Center near intersection of Hwys. 603 and 53; Standard — Next to Martin's Grocery on Standard-Dedeaux Road; Dedeaux — Old Dedeaux School; Standard-Vidalia Road; North Bay West — Bay Sr. High School, Blue Meadow Road; Diamondhead East — Diamondhead Community Center, 5300 Diamondhead Circle.

Circuit clerk Pam Metzler commented, "This election is very important to the two candidates. I urge all the voters in District 3 to go out Tuesday and cast your votes. It won't take you any time; there won't be any long lines."

She added that only three absentee ballots have been cast so far, one by mail and two in the circuit clerk's office November 7.

County places two new buses on FY94 wish list

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The purchase of two new buses for use by the county Seniors Citizen's and Mental Health programs was rejected by the board of supervisors Thursday.

Ted Hearn of Coast Transit Authority (CTA) appealed to the board during a workshop session, citing the current buses, purchased in May 1990, each have traveled 134,000 miles.

"These buses," Hearn stated, "run five days per week and carry persons to program centers, to medical appointments, on shopping trips, and various errands. One bus operates about 10 hours per day and the other about 13 hours per day."

The buses proposed for replacement will increase seating from 17 passengers to 21. The total cost is estimated between $68,000 and $70,000, of which 80 percent will be paid by a Federal Transit Administration grant. The county cost would be $14,000 for both buses.

The county presently pays CTA $26,000 per year to operate both bus services.

Previous budget designations and a question of liability caused supervisors to reject matching grant monies for the construction of a walkway and pier along the Buccaneer State Park beach.

Commitment for an expenditure of $18,000 by Hancock County was requested by Jeff Taylor of South Mississippi Planning and Development District (SMPDD).

Taylor said he had approval on a 50/50 matching grant from Coastal Zone Management Low Cost Construction Fund and BMR was committing $40-50,000 in materials and services.

District 3 supervisor Howard Lizana said with the need for road repairs, he preferred to wait on the expenditure.

District 1 supervisor Robert Peterson stated he felt the monies were needed elsewhere in the county at this time.

Taylor said the board could reapply for the funds at a later date.

Civil defense director Bobby Boudin announced that during the board's December 7 meeting he would present the 10 volunteer men and women who will form the Hancock County Hazardous Material Team.

He said Diamondhead Fire Chief Dennis Westbrook will head the team, and the members will be on call 24 hours to answer any need within the county.

Four women representing Concerned Citizens of Hancock County and two of the anti-drug task forces formed within the

Toys for Tots game preparations started

BY TRACI BONNEY

In a joint effort, the Toys for Tots committee and the Hancock Chamber of Commerce will host a parade and football game Saturday, Dec. 5, at Tiger stadium.

The parade will start at the foot of the Bay bridge at 11 a.m. that day. The route will take the parade from the bridge west on Beach Blvd. to Main Street, onto St. Francis, then onto Dunbar, across Hwy. 90 up Dunbar to Highland Drive, then to the field.

Sheriff's Investigator Matt Karl said 15 units already are confirmed for the parade, including floats for the Waveland Civic Association and the Lawman's Association, the Hancock High School band, the Jagermeister Jagerettes dance team, possibly the Miller Lite and Bud Light girls, the Girl Scouts, two units from Keesler, the Gulfview Points of Life club, the Harahan Police Department, and the Saints' Number 1 fan, the Who-Dat.

Santa will be in the parade as well, riding in the Casino Magic stretch limousine. Several young ladies from Gulfview Elementary will be named as the queen and court of the parade and game.

John Mason will sing the national anthem for the football game, and some of the Saints' fans (in costume this year, Karl said) will be on the sidelines.

At the game — a matchup between two teams consisting of Sheriff's Department, Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Department personnel — two bicycles and other toys donated by local merchants will be given away at halftime.

A concession stand will be operated, with all proceeds going to the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund. Admission to the game is one doll or toy in good condition.

Coordinating the parade and game are Karl, Bay Police Officer Don Ocho, Waveland Police Officer Danny Carter, and Toys for Tots committee members Genette Butsch, Pauline Rühr and Larry Monroe.

St. Rose de Lima Parish/Bay St. Louis area, appealed to the supervisors for assistance in obtaining a building in which youth programs may be developed.

Geraldine Lang asked the supervisors for the unoccupied, former welfare building located on Necaise Street in Bay St. Louis.

The women said they wished for the county to donate the building. They stated they were prepared to assume all liability.

The women made an appeal for the immediate need to establish youth-oriented programs as a street alternative for Hancock children.

The board said they would verify the legality of such a donation and report back to the group.

County Tax Assessor Eddie Murtagh asked the board to verify a policy in which additional hours worked within an eight hour day were paid at time-and-a-half.

He said occasionally he allows his workers to come in late or leave early for various personal needs, and the time lost is usually replaced by the employee working through a lunch hour.

Murtagh said though the employee does not work over 40 hours a week, pay for the additional hours is rated at time-and-a-half.

Chancery clerk Mike Necaise said he believed the rate to be dictated by labor laws.

Necaise said he would look into the matter.

Supervisors hear alternate mosquito control proposal

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The board of supervisors listened Thursday as Wayne Machado of Mosquito Control Inc. (MCI) spoke of the methods and successes his company has accumulated in seven years.

A Louisiana based company, MCI promised to approach the problem of mosquito control in the most scientific, biologically safe and effective means available.

Quoting a price close to Hancock's present contribution to the two-county mosquito control commission, all five supervisors acknowledged preliminary interest.

Board president Mike Ladner stated, until the status of the present mosquito control commission is concluded, the county would remain uncommitted in future direction.

MCI's proposal included placement of additional traps and increase in frequency of collections; variations in time of road spraying covering an additional 35,000 acres; and the introduction of aerial spraying.

Machado stated the five to six jobs created by the service would be filled by Hancock residents.

The Gulf Coast Mosquito Commission meets 5:30 p.m. Thursday, November 19 on Hewes Avenue in Gulfport.

Groundbreaking set for four laning of 603/43

A groundbreaking ceremony for the four laning of Highway 603/43 in Hancock County will be Tuesday, Nov. 17, at 11 a.m., according to Southern District Transportation Commissioner Ronnie Shows.

The ceremony will be held just north of the Highway 603 and Interstate 10 interchange. The public is invited to attend.

we recognize the importance of a safe, efficient highway system for the economic and recreational vitality of an area. Now, I'm happy to announce that we are beginning this project for Hancock County."

The project provides for the grading, drainage and paving of two additional lanes running parallel to Highway 603 between U.S. 90 and Stennis Airport Road. The new lanes will be approximately seven miles long.

The contract was awarded to the lowest bidder, S.C.I., INC. of Biloxi, at a cost of $7.9 million. Completion date is July 28, 1994.

IRS seeks local residents for refunds

The Internal Revenue Service is trying to give $214,595 back to Mississippians who paid too much in federal income taxes. The post office has sent the 623 checks back to the IRS marked "undeliverable," according to the IRS.

"The refunds range from one dollar to more than $3700 with the average check of $344," said Bob Douthitt, Jackson District Director of the IRS. "This time of year a check for $300 could come in handy. I would encourage all taxpayers on this list to contact the IRS immediately and give us their correct mailing address."

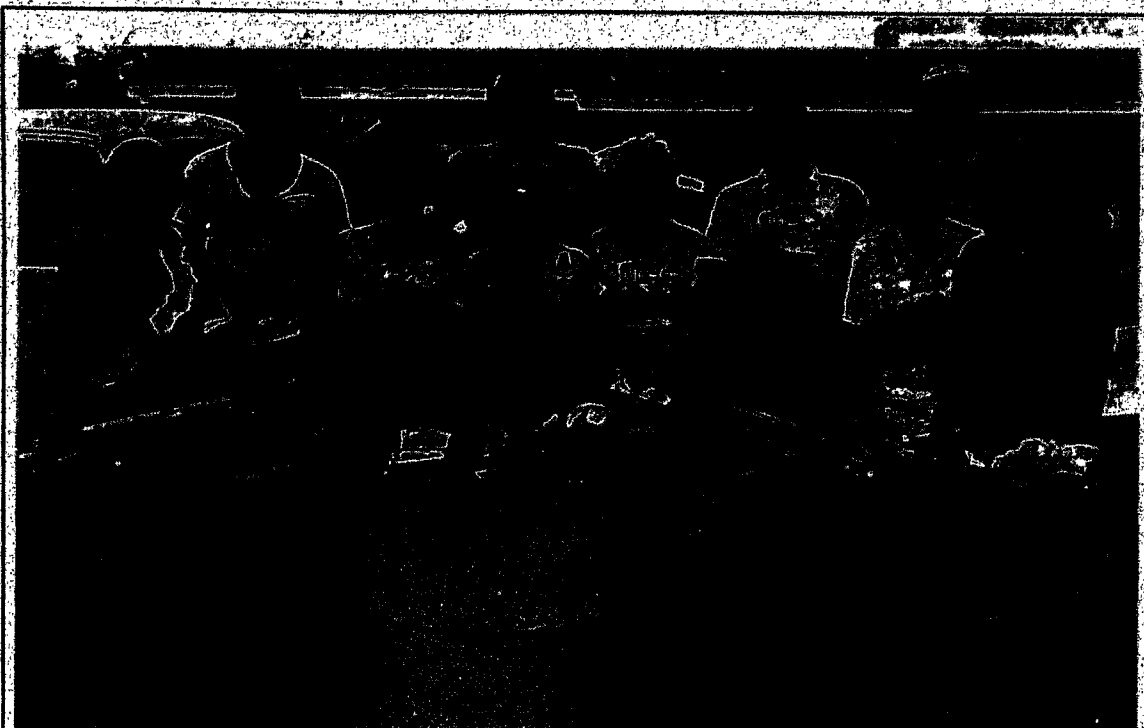

Anyone due a refund who has not gotten it yet can call the IRS at 1-800-TAX-1040. Refunds should be received in 4-6 weeks.

Douthitt said the checks will be reissued and mailed to the owners only after the IRS has been contacted by telephone. He stressed that no checks would be available for personal pickup.

The following persons are sought:

Oscar J. Moran, Jr., Pass Christian; Thai Q. Pham, Pass Christian; John G. Rogers, Waveland; Sharon Smith, Bay St. Louis; Katherine R. Miller (Decd), Bay St. Louis; Bruce & Janet Pickett, Bay St. Louis; Bobby G. Hilliard, Bay St. Louis; Judy Walker, Bay St. Louis.

The Waveland Police Department was brought into the case by the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, the Mississippi State Board of Pharmacy and Big B's security staff, who were investigating it, she added.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Just as you thought all the voting was over with, we still have a position to be settled on Tuesday.

There will be a run-off election in District Three for the position of Election Commissioner.

This means all the qualified electors of District Three need to go to the polls and cast their votes for the candidate of their choice.

Your vote does count and is needed by the candidate of your choice Tuesday.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

It has been a long time, really too long of a time, but the groundbreaking is scheduled Wednesday for the four laning of Highway 603.

This project has been in the works for years, and I am glad the day has finally arrived.

Transportation Commissioner Ronnie Shows will be on hand, as well as other state and local officials for the groundbreaking to be held on Highway 603 just north of Interstate 10.

It seems it has been years since the announcement was made about the project, which is to be from the Stennis Airport Drive to Highway 90.

Many would like to see more of the dangerous highway four-laned, but hopefully this will come down the road.

I am fearful of the congestion that will be caused by the project, especially with the work being done on the Interstate 10 bridge over Pearl River, which is detouring some traffic on Highway 603.

I know it was a nightmare at the start of the 1960's when Highway 603 was upgraded and raised some five feet or so along the way.

Fortunately we already have part of the highway in place and this should help.

I would like to urge all motorists to drive with extreme caution during the construction, which is to take some time to complete.

I am anxiously awaiting the ribbon cutting on the official opening of the four-laned Highway 604.

Limits on term limits

Limiting the terms of elected officials — especially congressmen — is not a new idea. At the formation of our country's government, term limits were included in the Articles of Confederation.

However, the Constitution which is in force today contains no mention of term limits (save for the 22nd amendment, passed in 1951, which limits presidential terms).

Fourteen states across the country carried the issue of term limits for senators and congressmen on the November 3 ballot; voters in all 14 states supported the issue.

But, the results of those decisions take on a whole new meaning when compared with the results of other races on the ballots in those states.

Each of those 14 states was also holding congressional races. In almost every race, the incumbent was re-elected. For example, Arizona had 6 races for the U.S. House; 5 incumbents were re-elected, as was the state's incumbent senator.

In Missouri, 7 incumbents were re-elected in 9 congressional races, along with an incumbent senator. Nebraska sent 3 incumbents back to Washington out of 3 races. In 4 states where an at-large congressman was up for re-election (Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming), each candidate was voted back into office. The pattern is the same for the other 7 states.

There are strong arguments to be made on both sides of the term limit issue. But for now, it seems that the only person the voters want to see limited in office is the other guy's representative.

The people are sending mixed signals on this issue. If term limits are so popular, why are the incumbents being sent back for another stint in Washington?

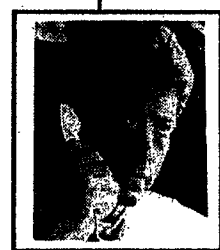

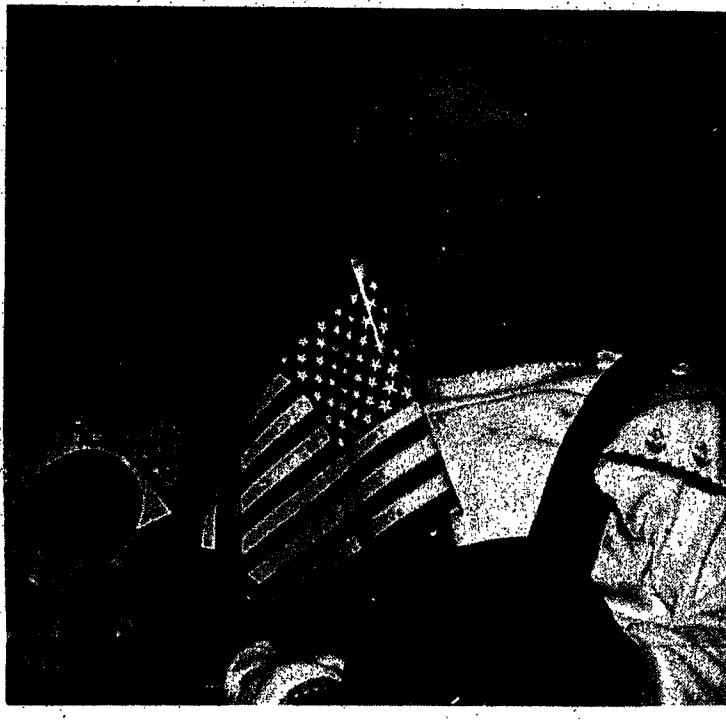

Is the incumbent better than his opposition? Is it easier to vote for the candidate who helps to keep the military bases open in his district, or who has a proven record of bringing federal dollars and jobs back to the people?

As they say, all politics is local. This has never been proven better than by the results in 14 states on Election Day.

CONSUMER TIPS

After your purchase

In order to get the most for your money and avoid purchasing problems, follow the consumer tips listed below:

1. Use the product only as recommended by the manufacturer.
2. Read and follow the instructions on how to use the product.
3. Read and understand the warranty. (Mississippi law provides for an implied warranty on most purchases we make. For more information call the Office of Consumer Protection, 354-6018).
4. Keep all sales receipts, warranties, and instructions in order to be prepared in case of purchase problems.

5. If trouble develops, report the problem to the store where the purchase was made as soon as possible. Trying to fix the product yourself may cancel the warranty.
6. Keep a file of your efforts to resolve the problem. It should include the names of the individuals you speak with and the date, time, and outcome of the conversation.
7. If your efforts with the place of purchase fail to resolve the problem, and you wish to pursue the matter further, contact the Office of Consumer Protection, 354-6018.

Anti-litter hotlines set up in Bay, county

Hotlines have been implemented for people in Bay St. Louis and outside the city limits to call if they see someone toss trash out of a vehicle.

If you see someone do this, memorize or write down the vehicle's license number and call the appropriate hotline number. A recording will instruct you as to how to report the violation.

After the vehicle registration is traced, a letter will be sent by the appropriate authority to the vehicle owner. The letter does not accuse the vehicle owner of throwing the trash, but states that an occupant of a vehicle which is or was owned by that person was seen throwing trash out of the vehicle. The letter states that no charges are being filed at the time the letter is issued, but also reminds the person that littering is illegal and carries a $250 fine.

The numbers to call are 255-6234 for a violation witnessed in Bay St. Louis, and 255-6246 for one witnessed in the county.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Legislature to be organized according to party lines

The day may have arrived that the Mississippi Legislature is going to be organized along party lines, something unheard of in this state but commonplace in most other states which have long had a two-party system.

Republicans will hold 40 seats in the upcoming Legislature, as a result of this year's special legislative elections, an increase of eight over the last session. Democrats still have a comfortable edge with 132 seats. Two legislators classify themselves as independents.

But a number of Democrats, especially in the House, feel they have been forced by the activist role taken by Republican Gov. Kirk Fordice in behalf of GOP candidates in the Nov. 3 elections to protect their turf in the Legislature by organizing as a party bloc.

Although still in the preliminary discussion stage, the idea being kicked around by several House Democrats is to organize a Democratic Caucus which could map strategy in dealing with the Fordice Administration and exert influence in the organization of the House.

There will be 27 Republicans in the House, and 93 Democrats. The two independents could decide to join with the Democratic caucus.

Apparently there is no thought as of now that the caucus would take over committee assignments and naming chairmen as is done by the majority and minority party caucuses in Congress. That would be left to the Speaker of the House as now provided by the rules.

One serious point of irritation to some House Democrats is that Speaker Tim Ford in the 1992 session gave seven House committee chairmanships to Republicans. Included were such important committees as Public Health and Welfare, and Apportionment and Elections.

Ford, who apparently is cool to the idea of a party caucus, is taking the position that the 1993 session, although it will consist of a newly elected House, is a continuation of the term begun in 1992. He believes that the 1992 committee assignments of members who were re-elected this year should remain in place.

No challenger to Ford for the speakership is in sight, but it seems absolutely essential that he will at least have to go through the formality of being re-elected speaker on Jan. 3, since he as well as others will be sworn in as new members of the Legislature.

That will bring into question the whole issue of adopting new rules and making new committee assignments. What is highly important here is this is the only time when rules can be changed by a simple majority vote. Once they are adopted, it then takes a two-thirds vote to change them.

The Democratic caucus planners say they would expect the caucus to have some voice in the committee assignments, by making recommendations to Ford.

Several House Democrats say that the Republicans were the first to bring up the possibility of organizing a GOP caucus as a bloc of votes to strengthen the hand of Republican Gov. Fordice in the Legislature. After he was overridden twice — on the 1 cent sales tax hike and the $98 million capital improvements bond issue — at the 1992 session, Fordice set out to elect enough Republican lawmakers to give him insurance against overrides.

He personally endorsed about 15 to 20 GOP legislative candidates, going into their districts to raise money for them and promote their candidacies against their Democratic opponents.

Although Fordice had said he would only go after Democrats who had voted for the sales tax hike, there's evidence he forgot that promise in the heat of partisanship.

Democratic Rep. Hugh "Penny" Ellard of Kosciusko, who had stood with Fordice against the sales tax hike and bond issue bill, was chagrined to find the governor helping his Republican opponent, Dale Rogers, of Carthage in his Senate District 19 race. Fordice came into the district for a Rogers fundraiser and publicly endorsed him, along with a House candidate. "That's real gratitude," said Ellard, who defeated Rogers, 55 percent to 45 percent. "I don't feel very good about Mr. Fordice."

Similar sentiments were expressed to this writer by six or eight other Democratic lawmakers who won their races over Fordice-endorsed candidates in what they said were very dirty campaigns waged by the GOP.

"If Gov. Fordice and the Republicans are going to declare war on Democratic legislators and go around secretly recruiting Democrats to switch parties (five lawmakers had switched this year), then they have to pay a price," said Democratic Rep. Eric Clark of Taylorsville.

"We (Democratic legislators) have to have some way to defend ourselves." A Democratic caucus may be their answer.

Sycamore home destroyed in fire

BY T.H. (DOC) TOUPS

An early Friday evening fire gutted the new residence of Mrs. Donna Payne and her family. According to Payne, she was at home with her 4-year old daughter Kellie, while her husband was at a grocery store. "I was sitting on the couch, watching TV," she said, "when suddenly I heard a loud popping." She explained she went outside to investigate and her husband returned. They found one of their bedrooms engulfed in flames and rushed back in to rescue Kellie. Though they managed to save a few items, most of their belongings were destroyed in the blaze.

Chief Andrew Lizana of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department said his office received the call at 7:16 p.m. The fire had already gotten into the attic, he explained, but was brought under control quickly. Lizana said two pumper trucks and eight firefighters responded to the call.

County Fire Marshall Richard Pate said the fire was being investigated as accidental. Lizana said at this point, it is suspected that a faulty electrical outlet may have started the blaze.

Mrs. Payne said that the house, at 250 Sycamore Street, had been her family's home for only three months. She said that they were staying with relatives until other accommodations could be found.

Pass oyster shell planting begins

Oyster shell planting began Wednesday on the Pass Christian oyster reef. The process should increase the size of future oyster harvests, Bureau of Marine Resources officials say.

High pressure water hoses will jettison 2,000 cubic yards of oyster shells from barges into the Mississippi Sound during the two-day operation. The shells will create an additional 10 acres of reef. Water pressure is used to distribute the shells so that they will be spread evenly, covering more area.

The shells should provide a solid base on which young oysters, called spat, can set following oyster spawning.

The project will be funded by the State Port at Gulfport as part of an mitigation agreement between port and BMR officials, said Gary Cuevas, BMR marine program manager.

Under the agreement, the port is filling in 29 acres of water bottoms at the port for its expansion program. To mitigate any damage done to the ecology by this operation, the port will plant the oyster shells and implement a portwide storm-water management plan.

Mitigation for wetlands and water-bottom losses can be considered in cases where a greater public interest is served by the project, Cuevas said.

Oysters must have a hard base, called a substrate to survive. If young oysters fall on a soft bottom, they will quickly be covered by mud and silt and die.

John Cirino, BMR shellfish program coordinator, said that the new shells will increase the hard base available for oysters to set.

"Under favorable conditions," Cirino said, "this 10 acres should produce and additional 6,000 to 9,000 sacks of oysters within 18 to 24 months after spat settles on the shells."

A sack of oysters produces between five and eight pounds of oyster meat.

Gulf Coast Writers Association

"Plots & Fiction" will be the program of the Gulf Coast Writer's Association's November 19 meeting at William Carey College, Gulfport. The meeting, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., will be held in the student center instead of the auditorium.

The director of creative writing at Wm. Carey, Dr. J. V. McCrory will present a short program, followed by a question and answer session. A working sample will be presented for an analysis concentrating on the principles just formulated.

Dr. McCrory has 30-plus years in teaching, primarily at Wm. Carey College. A professor of English, he received his undergraduate degree from Millsaps College, and his doctorate from the University of Tennessee. His primary focus has always been the teaching of creative writing, and reaching young people. He writes poetry and fiction.

The GCWA meets at 7 p.m., the fourth Thursday of the month at Wm. Carey College and welcomes anyone interested in writing. The December 17 meeting will be a pot-luck supper in the student center. No program will be presented.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

Evelyn Burns and state American Legion Auxiliary president Lou Wilkerson represented the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 at the ALA Northern Area Conference in Meridian November 8.

Guest speaker for the event was national vice commander Robert E. David from the Southern division.

The regular meeting of Unit 139 was opened by president Susan Piazza. The colors were advanced and opening prayers read. A moment of silent prayer was observed for ailing and deceased auxiliary members.

After the Pledge of Allegiance and preamble were recited, regular business was tabled because the unit had guest speakers, officers Don Ocho and Jim Clark, who spoke of the dangers prevalent during holiday events, how to protect oneself from those dangers, and what to do in case something does occur.

After the officers spoke, regular business resumes. The minutes from the previous meeting were read and accepted; the roll call of officers was taken; and the unit's financial report was given.

The various committees — membership, Americanism, and children and youth — gave their reports.

The Auxiliary Christmas party and dinner will be as last year's was. Spouses are welcome to join members for the event. Members are asked to bring covered dishes and gifts (for men and women) to exchange.

Due to inclement weather, the Veterans Day parade was cancelled, but ceremonies were held inside the Post 77 home in Waveland.

Twenty-four junior and senior auxiliary members from Unit 139 attended the program, which was sponsored by Lawrence Freeman of Post 77. The St. Stanislaus High School band provided the music.

Refreshments followed the ceremony.

American Legion Auxiliary 139 hosts bonco games

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 will host a bonco party Wednesday, November 18 at 7 p.m. at the Legion home on Green Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis.

Diamondhead Garden Club

The October meeting of the Diamondhead Garden Club was called to order by President Brierley Acker.

Virginia Ludwig requested that the minutes be amended to show that an audit was done of the books.

Acker reminded members that Wildlife Habitat information and applications are available. She encouraged those present to have their back yards declared wildlife habitats.

Rose Hobbs and Andy Borja will work to develop a comprehensive site plan to landscape the Fitness Trail. Once the plan is developed the club can begin improvements in a selected area. Other organizations can choose other areas of the plan to help with.

The president encouraged members to take advantage of the club library. Olive Kresse donated a new book on house plants. Horticulture tips for the month were given by Nancy Yarborough.

The Garden of the Month was awarded to Dr. and Mrs. Fred Womack at 778 Ahi Drive. The Gulf Course Garden of the Month went to Mrs. Josette McFaul at 8852 Moanalua Way.

The president thanked hostesses for the day, Gerri Garberg and Henrietta Kelly.

Club members had the annual picnic at the home of Grace Finlay Oct. 6.

Following the announcements and the break, vice president Annette Sauter introduced the speaker for the day, Andy Borja. Borja is employed by the Property Owners Association and is responsible for the appearance of the grounds at Diamondhead.

Sierra Club

Diane Peranich, state representative from District 121, West Harrison County, will give a short crash course on how to make your views known to the Mississippi state legislature. This is an opportunity to find out how the system works and how you can be a part of it.

Also, a short (12 minutes) beautiful video on the wetlands of the Mississippi Gulf Coast will be shown.

The public is invited to this free presentation held at the Marine Education Center (located south of U.S. 90 at the west end of the Biloxi-Ocean Springs bridge).

The program begins at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 19. This event is sponsored by the Gulf Coast Group of the Sierra Club. For more information, call 435-2623.

Annual Harvest Dinner hosted by Women of Christ Church

BY KATY CAIRE

Great Thanksgiving traditions, like great oaks, from small beginnings grow, as is the case in the upcoming Harvest Dinner which the Women of Christ Episcopal Church will offer the Bay-Waveland area, this Thursday, November 19, from 5 to 8 p.m. in Virginia Hall, on the grounds of Christ Episcopal Church, 912 South Beach in Bay St. Louis.

The traditional Harvest Dinner began in 1948 as a fund-raising meal, prepared and served by seven women of the church to 250 diners at the North Beach home of Mary and Charles Breath, Jr.

The first dinner, priced at two dollars, has mushroomed into an eagerly awaited event which draws several hundred diners each year; and it's still a tasty bargain, at the current price of six dollars!

The menu, a time-honored tradition in itself, includes choice of turkey or ham, and cornbread dressing, accompanied by sweet potato casserole, spinach Florentine, cranberry relish, Waldorf salad and a variety of pies and cakes. Armand's Restaurant is making the dressing.

Take-out plates will be available from 5 to 6 p.m., and dinner will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased in advance from any Episcopal churchwoman, the church office or by calling 467-7757. (The church office is open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.)

Proceeds from the dinner, main fund-raiser of the year for the Women of Christ Church, will be used for various charitable projects and outreach programs, said Kim Debenport, chairman. Susan Stevens is co-chairman, and Bobbie Durk-vich, publicity chairman of the event, with Gwen Hogan as ticket chairman.

"We invite our friends of all faiths to join us in this Harvest Dinner and pre-Thanksgiving celebration," said Ann Ashman, president of the group, in discussing plans for the 44th annual event.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Southern cooks, it is said, can make almost any dessert better by merely adding pecans; and they're justly famous for their pecan pies and tarts, pecan-studded brownies and other cookies and so on. And, for their pralines, especially!

Pralines, known at one time as the 'candy of the Creoles' were brought to Louisiana and Mississippi from France, by immigrants fleeing the French Revolution. (The first pralines, made in France more than 200 years ago, were actually sugary-coated almond delicacies.)

The French in Louisiana and Mississippi soon substituted the delicious paper shell pecans native to the area, and thus evolved the praline as we know today, with variations, of course. In old New Orleans, as the fame of the praline spread, tignon-topped 'mammies' offered pralines in front of the Opera House and wherever else people gathered; and our own Bay St. Louis was known for some years as the 'Praline Capital of the South' with good reason. The shops along Highway 90 in the Bay still ship their tasty confections all over the country, as do shops in New Orleans and elsewhere, and the tourists take pralines home as well!

I was musing on all this, as I read newspaper articles telling of the low amounts of pecans being harvested, and the high prices sure to follow, a result of Hurricane Andrew's devastating winds, which stripped the nuts from the trees just before harvest time, in private and commercial orchards in the area.

Jack and Sue lost their venerable pecan tree, which was uprooted by the winds blasting through Mandeville, so I won't be enjoying pecans from that source! Fortunately, I have some on hand in the freezer, so I'll be making up at least enough batches of pralines to send to the three grandsons away from home — Shannon, on Navy duty in Hawaii; Bill, a first-year law student at the University of South Carolina in Columbia; and his brother Brian, studying for his Master's in communications at the same college. They need their Deep South nourishment, pralines and jambalaya and all that!

And, I'll find some pecans for sale here and there, and make up some pecan tarts and brownies and other cookies, even if that means bending the budget a bit; for I, too, must have my Deep South goodies for Christmas gifts — and for myself!

As for the pralines (prawlens, you visitors, please, not pray-leens!) I prefer the original old fashioned praline, sugary and crispy; others like the creamier versions. And, most praline-makers have their own secret recipes, as well.

The Picayune Creole Cookbook, first published by The Times-Picayune Publishing Co., in New Orleans in 1901, and reprinted often in ensuing years, is a treasury of good cooking. From my 1947 edition, here is the recipe for:

PECAN PRALINES

2 cups brown sugar
¼ lb. freshly peeled and cut Louisiana pecans
1 spoon of butter
4 Tbsp. of water

Set the sugar to boil, and as it begins to boil, add the pecans, which you have divested of their shells, and cut some into fine pieces, others into halves and others again into demi-halves. Let all boil until the mixture begins to bubble, and then take off the stove, and proceed to lay on a damp marble slab (or buttered dish), dropping into cakes on the slab, and spreading and rounding with a kitchen spoon and fork.

Be careful to stir the mixture in the above recipe constantly till the syrup begins to thicken and turn to sugar. In using water, use just enough to melt the sugar.

There's a brand new, updated edition of this famed cookbook out now, but I like the quaint phrasing of some of the recipes in my old copy.

And, for an exact recipe, closer to home, here's Hazel Marcy's praline 'goodie' from Christ Episcopal Church's Centennial Celebration Cookbook. Here's:

CREAMY PECAN PRALINES

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 cups pecans
½ cup cream
2 tsp. vanilla

Place ingredients into saucepan. Mix thoroughly. Bring to boil over medium flame, stirring constantly for about 10 minutes. Remove mixture and beat for a short time. Spoon out onto sheets of waxed paper. Makes about 14 medium-sized pralines. (Copyright, 1992, Katharine D.M. Caire).

Pumpkin flan is seasonal treat

PUMPKIN FLAN

¾ cup sugar
¼ cup water
1 cup canned pumpkin
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon ground allspice
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
6 eggs
1 cup half-and-half
1 cup whipping (heavy) cream

Heat oven to 350°. Heat ¾ cup sugar and ¼ cup water to boiling in heavy 2-quart saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly. Boil, without stirring, until syrup is deep golden brown.

Place quiche dish, 9x1½ or 10x1½ inches, in hot water until warm (to prevent dish from cracking when pouring hot syrup into it); dry completely. Pour syrup into dish; immediately rotate dish until syrup covers bottom.

Beat remaining ingredients except half-and-half and whipping cream in large bowl until well blended. Beat in half-and-half and whipping cream. Pour over syrup. Place dish in shallow roasting pan on oven rack. Pour very hot water into pan until 1 inch deep. Bake 1 to 1½ hours or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Remove dish from water; cool 15 minutes. Refrigerate about 3 hours or until chilled. Loosen side of flan from dish, using knife; unmold. Refrigerate any remaining flan. 12 servings; 280 calories per serving.

This recipe taken from Betty Crocker's 40th Anniversary Edition Cookbook.

Griffin exhibit featured at Simply Southern Ltd.

Special to the Echo

Prior to her journey to photograph the wild game of South Africa, Simply Southern Limited will host a reception and exhibit of the current works of photographer L.J. Griffin, Saturday, November 21, 2-7 p.m. and Sunday, 2-5 p.m.

Centerpiece of the exhibit will be Griffin's photograph of the old Logtown Road. "This photograph has such depth that you expect to see one of the ox drawn log wagons of the 1880's come around the bend," said Yancy Pogue, Simply Southern Ltd., owner.

As a self-taught photographer with a good eye for composition, Griffin has taken advanced studies through the New York School of Photography. Her photographs have been published in Louisiana Conservation, Mississippi Outdoors and Outdoor Photography, an international professional magazine.

The reception will also feature the multi-media works of Susie Webb, and the whimsical folk art of Pat George.

Webb's woven collages, paintings on foil and art cards will be given special attention. Major art shows have exhibited her work including Art Expo New York and Art Expo California.

Focus will be given to the clever birdhouses designed by George. "George combines her talents for faux finishes and her subtle sense of humor to create one of a kind pieces of art," said Pogue.

Tigers lose to Raleigh, 26-7 finish season with 8-3 record

BY RANDY PONDER

Bay High's season ended Friday night in Raleigh with a 26-7 loss to the Lions in the first round of the state District 8, Class 3-A football playoffs.

Raleigh, 9-2, took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards on 19 plays to claim the early lead. The drive was kept alive by a pass interference call against the Tigers at the 13, on a fourth down play. The extra point attempt was wide left, leaving the Lions on top 6-0 at the 4:09 mark of the first quarter.

Bay High bounced back and took the lead midway through the second period. A blocked punt gave the Tigers possession on the Raleigh 33.

Quarterback Sam Sheppard hooked up with Brennan Compretta on a 14-yard pass to the Lion 19. Following a five-yard procedure penalty, three runs netted only 12 yards to bring up fourth and three.

The Lions jumped off sides to give the Tigers a first and goal at the 7. Dwayne Antoine collected the points on a one yard run on third down. Shawn Keener's extra point split the uprights to give Bay High their only lead of the contest, 7-6.

Raleigh responded with a 41-yard drive following a good kick return. Quarterback Donnell Barnes dived over the top of the pile, from the one, for the score. A two-point conversion attempt was stopped short of the goal, keeping the game close at 7-12.

On their ensuing series, the Tigers tried a fake punt on fourth and 17, at the Bay High 35. The pass was incomplete and almost intercepted. The Lions took over on downs.

Raleigh stunned the Tigers with a lightning quick touchdown on their next play. The Lion quarterback took the snap, rolled to his left and fired the ball to a wide open Joey Childs in the endzone for the TD. A two-point conversion gave Raleigh a 20-7 advantage as the first half ended.

Bay High took the second half kick and marched to the Lion 34 before turning the ball over on downs.

Raleigh reversed directions and scored their final TD on a short run by Reco Page to cap a 66-yard, seven-play drive at the 5:42 mark of the third stanza.

The Tigers best opportunity in the final frame ended with a pass interception in the endzone after Bay High had reached the Lion 18.

"I'm thankful for all the support we have had," Bay High coach Rocky Gaudin said after the game. "We had a great crowd up here. I just wish we had played a little better."

Bay High ends the year with an impressive 8-3 record. The Tigers will have about 40 members of this team returning next season.

Commercial king mackerel season closes January 1

The state Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks voted to issue a notice of intent to close commercial king mackerel season from Jan. 1, 1993 to June 30, 1993.

The action came at the request of the Bureau of Marine Resources.

Tom Van Devender, BMR chief of saltwater fisheries, said the request was made so that Mississippi would be in compliance with federal laws.

The National Marine Fisheries Service ordered federal waters closed to the commercial taking of king mackerel on Oct. 18, because the federal commercial quota of 770,000 pounds had been reached in the western Gulf of Mexico.

The federal commercial quota of 1.73 million pounds in the eastern Gulf was reached earlier in the year.

Federal authorities have asked all the Gulf States to take the same action as soon as possible, Van Devender said.

Recreational king mackerel is still open in federal and state waters.

The action was only the passage of a notice of intent and not final adoption of the public notice. The proposed notice goes to the Secretary of State's Office where it will be held for 30 days for public comment, during which the BMR will hold a public hearing.

After the public comment period, the notice will go back to the commission for final adoption. If finally adopted, the action will be effective Jan. 1.

BMR gets new enforcement chief

A former Biloxi policeman and a boat-theft investigator for the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks now heads the Law Enforcement Division of the Department's Bureau of Marine Resources.

Terry Bakker, 44, a life-long resident of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, was appointed BMR Chief of Law Enforcement by department executive director Dr. Samuel Polles.

There has not been a chief of Law Enforcement at the BMR since the medical retirement of former chief Jerry Gollotte in September 1989.

GCRL projects enhance restoration of fish, shrimp numbers

Fall is harvest time at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs, and staff members involved in the striped bass restoration project and the marine shrimp farming program are making special preparations for the cooler temperatures ahead.

Striped bass
In late October, about 10,000 six-inch striped bass from GCRL's recirculating intensive culture system were harvested, tagged and stocked into Mississippi's coastal tributaries. In July, 28,684 two-inch stripers were released.

These fish represent the survivors from approximately 500,000 two-day-old striped bass fry from the Blackwater Hatchery in northwest Florida which were stocked at GCRL last spring.

Project leader Larry Nicholson was disappointed that this year's program did not surpass the 1991 record-setting effort, when approximately 132,000 Phase I fish were released during the summer and over 14,000 Phase II tagged fish were released in the fall.

"However, we still had a healthy crop of stripers to strengthen Mississippi's recreational striped bass fishery in the coming months," Nicholson said.

Since 1967, GCRL has been involved in many projects designed to reestablish natural striped bass populations in Mississippi's coastal streams. Current research is funded by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Service.

There has been no evidence of natural reproduction of striped bass in Mississippi waters over the past 25 years, but limited reproduction has been reported in other states.

Anglers are asked to call GCRL at 872-4200 when they catch a striped bass, whether tagged or not, to report the length, weight and location of the catch. This information helps researchers to monitor the success of stocking programs.

Marine shrimp farming
"It's time for our annual shrimp shuffle," explained John Ogle of GCRL's marine shrimp farming program sponsored by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

"We have to winterize the operations of our closed recirculating system by bringing all tropical shrimp inside from our three outdoor ponds. We have to replace the windows in the Florida room of our maturation facility, and check and light the heaters, too.

"The trick is being able to transfer our stocks as necessary without disrupting our ongoing research efforts," he continued.

Staff members are moving native white shrimp, Penaeus setiferus, from the pilot bait production system in the Florida room to the outside ponds. The white shrimp are less sensitive to winter temperatures than the two tropical shrimp being raised and studied, Penaeus vannamei and Penaeus stylirostris, which are major aquaculture species.

"Local bait dealers have cooperated with us by providing some of these shrimp, and we plan to do some trawling to catch the largest white shrimp we can this fall for stocking."

Penaeus stylirostris, or blue shrimp, is a popular aquaculture species because it is a large, shrimp and considerable numbers can be cultured in a relatively small area. Some blue shrimp have been moved for an outdoor pond to one of the Florida room tanks.

Other blue shrimp which have been kept in a 3,000-gallon tank in another room have been harvested, sectioned and examined histologically for any evidence of disease. After this large tank is bleached and purified, blue shrimp from the Florida room tank and other sources will be relocated there.

During the summer, when the laboratory raised more of the blue shrimp than were needed for ongoing aquaculture research, some of the disease-free juveniles were stocked into a one-acre saltwater pond at a Hancock County aquaculture facility owned and operated by Bob and Dianne Hunt. When the Hunts harvested a crop this fall, some of the shrimp were returned for restocking in GCRL tanks.

Penaeus vannamei are being moved from outdoor ponds to 500-gallon tanks in the Florida Room to protect them from winter temperatures. Eventually, the shrimp will be moved to the 3,000-gallon tanks in the laboratory's maturation facility where they will be encouraged to spawn and produce larvae for the next year's stocking efforts.

In the meantime, GCRL researchers continue to focus on diagnosis and prevention of IHHN, a virus which has plagued worldwide shrimp production by killing Penaeus vannamei and decreasing their growth rate. Work proceeds on development of disease free stocks as incoming animals from Central America are tested and held in GCRL's quarantine facility for 30 days.

The laboratory is one member of the GCRL Consortium, which also includes USDA-funded marine shrimp research components at Oceanic Institute in Hawaii, Tufts University in Massachusetts, Wadsworth Marine Center in South Carolina, Texas A&M University and the University of Arizona.

The consortium was founded in 1984 to accelerate development of a domestic marine shrimp farming program by drawing on the diverse resources of the research and academic community and around the country.

World Championship Boxing returns to Coast Coliseum

The first and only world boxing championship fight held on the Mississippi Gulf Coast occurred on February 7, 1982. In this match the great John L. Sullivan defeated Paddy Ryan in a 75-round bare-knuckled brawl on the lawn of the Burns Hotel in Mississippi City.

One hundred years later, World Championship Boxing returns to the Mississippi Coast when Barrington "Tiger" Francis, World Boxing Federation Featherweight Champion, puts his world title on the line in a 12-round bout against Pete Taliaferro at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum November 28.

Francis, named 1991 WBF "Fighter of the Year," has successfully defended his title three times. He is currently the British Commonwealth Champion, Canadian Champion and North American boxing Counsel Champion and has an impressive 21-3 record with 15 knockouts.

Taliaferro has a record of 19 wins and one loss with 14 knockouts. On October 3 of this year, the Mobile Alabama featherweight won by TKO over Kelvin Seabrooks, the former World Featherweight Champion in a fight at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

Tickets are available at the Coliseum and all TicketMaster outlets. Reserved seats are $25 and $15. General admission seats are $10. Call the Coliseum Ticket Office at 388-8010 for more information.

Red Ribbon Week

Schools throughout the nation recently participated in Red Ribbon Week to show a visible commitment to a drug-free America. Local schools joined in the observance with a number of activities.

The week was kicked off with a Youth to Youth program that included students from Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Pass Christian.

The Bay High Big Brother/Big Sister program had a Halloween costume contest at the last home football game. Two Tigers showed their spirit by wearing red bows over their ears.

Waveland Elementary also chose a Halloween-oriented approach by having a carnival with the theme, "Drugs are Scary." Meanwhile, at North Bay Elementary's fall festival, crime dog McGruff visited the students, and parents received information about drugs and their effects.

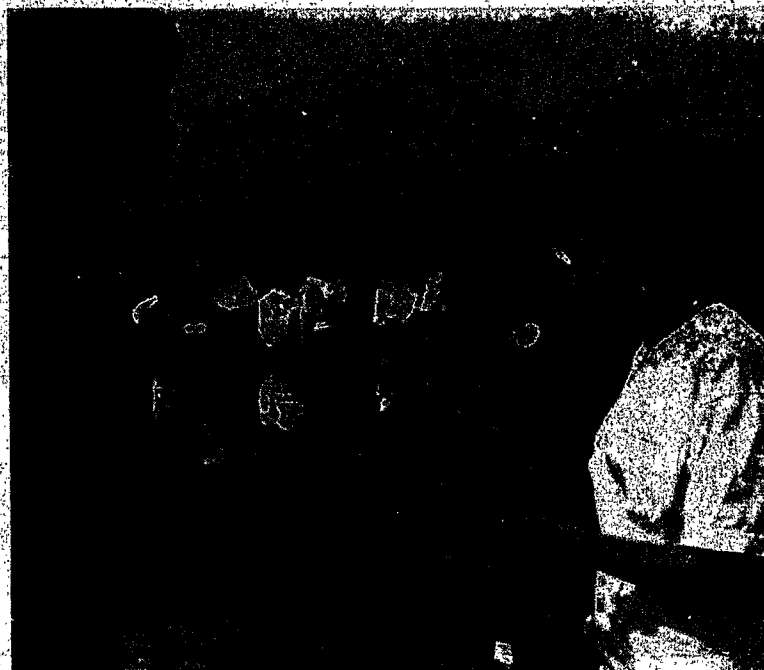

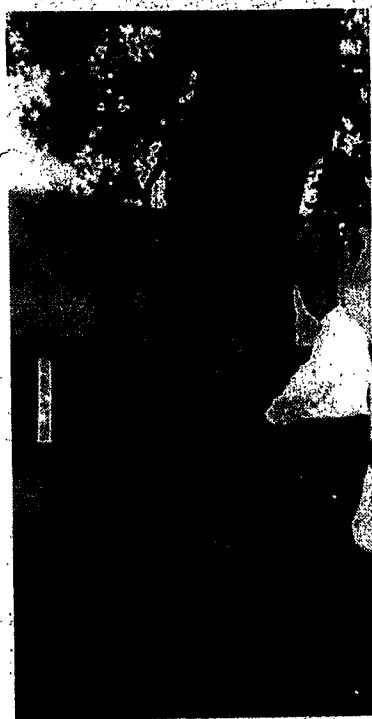

Coast Episcopal Elementary Spanish students took to the beach, where they hid treasures during their class festival. They learned during the course of their adventure that the treasure of happiness is feeling good about themselves.

Students at Bay Middle School handled drug-free awareness in a musical manner. They wrote and performed drug-free raps which were videotaped and judged. The school's PTO sponsored the activity.

Bay Catholic Elementary fifth and sixth graders decorated grocery bags from Winn-Dixie and Jitney Jungle with drug-free messages. The bags were returned and used in the stores during Red Ribbon Week.

Meanwhile, Saint Clare fifth graders had an entire Mass devoted to the topic of making good decisions.

And of course, red ribbons abounded. OLA and St. Stanislaus students attached ribbons to just about everything — school office buildings, trees and car antennas.

mutterings. Can the living find out the future from the dead?
Why not ask your God?

Is. 8:19
Dear Lord, our world has so many false ideas. Sometimes I forget to come to You. I ask this day to protect me from being misled and misguided. Amen.

But if you are unwilling to obey the Lord, then decide
